The Region submitted these cases for advice as to whether the Employer and its subsidiaries violated Section 8(a)(5) of the Act by refusing to provide two local unions with certain information regarding the Employer's relationship with another company it recently had purchased and information about that company's employees. The Office of General Counsel concluded that because each local union failed to demonstrate the relevance of the requested information, the outstanding Section 8(a)(5) complaint should be withdrawn in Case 19-CA-124390 and the charges should be dismissed in both cases, absent withdrawal.
